What You Will Learn

By coaching each other to achieve the goals, participants will have a chance to give and receive feedback with empathy, which is essential not only in the workplace but also in their day-to-day activities.

By coaching each other to achieve the goals, participants will have a chance to share their experience and skillsets through hands on communication.

In addition, our programs bring out the importance of radical collaboration, sharing experiences, and high EQ communication for reconnecting people.

This programme is suitable for those who are interested in this topic.

This course is an approved Matching Grant Scheme for Skills Upgrading programme, which subsidised 75% of programme cost.
